In today's Gospel it seems unfair that Martha is being told off for serving those who come to her. If Jesus arrived with a hungry entourage, what host would not be stressed out! Jesus frees Martha from these duties, not because they are not important, but so that she too can be nourished by him. Frantic activity is never good or sustainable for us. Let today's Gospel be a reminder that when we are bogged down in the craziness around us, we can sit and listen to him. Then we may be better prepared for the challenges that we face, whether they be in our homes or our wider communities.

FEAST DAY OF ST DECLAN – 24TH JULY

St. Declan, was born at the beginning of the fifth century near Lismore, Co. Waterford. St Declan made two pilgrimages to Rome where he studied for the priesthood. On his return to Ireland, he established a monastic community at Ardmore and was later confirmed in this office by St. Patrick himself. Declan was well known as an active missionary in Ireland prior to the coming of St. Patrick. Many miracles are attributed to the intervention of St. Declan.

He is credited, in particular, with having arrested a serious plague by his prayers and fasting. St. Declan's day is still actively celebrated by the Ardmore parishioners on 24 July. Until recent times it was the custom, on this day, for those suffering from back ailments to crawl under the flagstone as a method of obtaining relief. One nineteenth century commentator, however, voiced a certain amount of disapproval of the practice on the grounds that participating ladies would, of necessity, reveal their ankles in the process. Such a display could, conceivably, lead the on-looking menfolk into temptation!

The waters of St. Declan's well (which was restored in 1951) are said to possess miraculous powers of healing. Those who suffer from sprains, injuries or rheumatism, it is said, will obtain relief by bathing the injured limb in its cool waters. St. Declan died in the latter half of the fifth century. He was laid
